To Whom It May Concern

I have known Stephan Orange since 2008 and met him during the course of an event I was attending.

Stephan's absolute dedication to anything and everything to do with Food and Beverage made him stand out clearly in a group of busy industry professionals.

His attention to detail and enthusiasm to learn are assets he has developed over the past few years, it is rare to find someone so completely driven by their desire to do a job better, to know more about what they're doing, to discover new and interesting ways of doing the same job. Stephan's range of skills are many and varied, he presents as a well groomed, well travelled, well spoken, well mannered individual who's enjoyment of life affects all around him.

I have no hesitation in recommending Stephan to any potential employer, he would prove to be a welcome addition to any business.

Sincerely
Xen
